

FASHIONS OF THE HOUR

GAT and oriental design and color marks the dawn of a new era of feminine apparel. Bright and cheerful, striking and asymmetrical, the street outfit is turned into distinctive and unusually individual costume. Dressing is its simplicity is the effect eagerly sought after in the new winter suit, brocaded and lustrously fur trimmed.

From all areas I learn that simplicity is the keynote of the newest modes. Although Paris embraces everything it can lay its hands on, the effect is carefully designed and thus the idea is self-accounted for.

THE latest innovation introduced by French designers brings forth a symphony of suit and hat to match. The suit is a complete costume and as such it is accentuated by a smart and trim shapely of the same material and decoration, usually brocade or velvet embroidered in radiant and shining hues. In this idea the hat is a gem, but is shrewdly cut off back, making the head piece ring and connect.

Flam colored velvet needed in aerial thread and color with molten fur for both suit and hat, in a blue securing such action across the water. It gives the wearer a curved and graceful line, alluring and simple.

This is in direct keeping with the of the smartest ideas for winter shapes—a tight fitting black felt toque, which rises with all the solidity of a Grecian column. Close to an artistically painted face, the flay shape adheres to the lovely, earthward-like, divine figure, straight and shapely.

CARRYING the presently magnified interpretation of simplicity to even head ornaments may be found in a new evening coiffure which is emphasized by the classic simplicity of a band of filigreed dust. Such an ornament is a rare accessory for a chemise silhouette.

Vanity causes to be worn by mildly may be flat, bearing resemblance to a man's cigarette case. The newest ones contain all the necessary requisites to beauty the woman, including roses, powder, lipstick, mirror, comb and cigarette holder. The vanity cases I refer to have three flat compartments. Most of them are of black or hand model. It is especially designed for the costume suit of above mention.

HERE are a few things that Paris is doing with its fashion:

Infinitesimal pains are being taken to embroider the coat for the street. Embroidery of gowns are classic in design and color. Metal is extensively used.

Paris is showing preference to the silhouette with a flat back and flaring front.

A lot of glass exquisitely designed by the fertile imagination of an artist has an undeniable atmosphere with Parisian frocks.

Paris designs its coats with the lining to match the gown. The coats of this nature for the Fall will be three-quarters in length.

Long-haired furs are being used almost exclusively as trimming for gowns and wraps, suits and coats.

Paris uses black velvet for half its velvet ensembles and black velvet for the other half.

Betty Alden Tells of the Hunting Season at Myopia Club

By BETTY ALDEN

FEW women along the North Shore known more about horses than Miss Mary Curtis of Hamilton, whose bright suburban home makes her easily distinguished wherever she goes.

Miss Curtis, who has just returned to the shore from a brief visit to New York, is one of the keenest to follow the hounds of the Myopia Hunt Club down Hamilton way. She is always one of the prominent exhibitors at annual horse show held at Myopia on Labor Day.

The hunting season at Myopia continues to bring out the usual "gang" of enthusiastic sportsmen and women these brisk mornings. Drags are out three days a week, following the antelope trail, and fox hounds two days, Mondays and Fridays, the place of meeting being posted at the club.

Tomorrow the riders meet at 9:30 in the afternoon at "Sandlewood," the Ipswich estate of the Herbert W. Masons; on Thursday morning they will gather at 6:45 at Turkey Brook, and again on Saturday afternoon at 3:30 with Norwood Mills the meeting place.

SPEAKING of the Hamilton-Wenham section, the winter colony this year promises to be larger than ever.

Recent additions include the Harcourt Amory, Jr. ("Sam" Wood), whose marriage late in the winter caused a pleasant thrill of excitement for society, their engagement being rather a short one.

Then there are the Tom Mandells (Geraldine Clark) who were married only a few months ago. Their selection of the shore for a home occasioned no surprise to their friends, for Tom Mandell, son of the George Snell Mandells, is one of Myopia's most prominent members.

The John F. A. Davies (Marjorie Thomas) are another young couple electing to join the year-round colony in the Hamilton-Wenham section.

VERILY did consternation reign the other day among the group of bad-women when it was discovered that one of the dinner couldn't touch oysters and simply shuddered at chicken à la King!

The catastrophe occurred at the luncheon held the other day of the Copple House as part of the bazaar in aid of the Women's Municipal League. The ladies above-mentioned aversions for both dishes was particularly tragic as the luncheon was a table d'hôte affair.

is holding on January 10th. Mrs. Ed. W. S. Webster is leading her now home at No. 10 street for the occasion.

The sale will be like a country fair, with food, flowers and sweets the main feature. Mrs. Ralph Bradley (Edward Cabell), Mrs. Charles Hubbard, Jr., and Mrs. Richard Russell are also on the committee.

FINDS CURE FOR PNEUMONIA

Rome, Nov. 12.—Professor Marchisiani, eminent Italian physician, has announced the discovery of a remedy for pneumonia and other lung diseases by a young Swiss, Dr. Louis Tomarkin, who has been engaged in research work in the Royal Laboratories here. The treatment has been administered to numerous patients in the military hospitals with what are described as very successful results.

Professor Marchisiani says the remedy consists of a complex chemical formula, which, for want of a simpler name, has been called "anti-microbium."

Baking Cake for Careful Housewives is an art; to choose richly flavored fruits in large quantities, is an art; to mix the cake dough so that it will bake into a tasty cake, is an art; to watch the baking in large quantities is also an art. Drake's Cake is the result of such art and attention—it is a product of the baking art.

MEDICAL BODY CONDEMNS FACIAL MUD

New York, Nov. 12.—Mud beautifiers are attacked in the current issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association, which reported that five of the best known complexion muds were analyzed.

"With one exception," says the official organ of their association, "no substance other than clay, perfume and water was found." The one exception contained also a little glycerine and a trace of salicylate.

"Next to nostrums sold for the alleged rejuvenation of the male," says the Journal, "the most popular form of contemporary charlatanism is the exploitation of alleged beautifiers for the female. During the last year or two the cosmetic market has been flooded with a veritable avalanche of so-called complexion clays and face masks."

After discussing some of the claims for these products, the Journal continues:

"There is a helpful hint for those women who think the path of beauty lies through the clay route: Go to your neighborhood druggist and purchase a pound of Kaolin (dried powdered clay). It will cost about twenty cents. Mix it with the same weight of water. You will then have two pounds of beauty clay equal in beautifying power to, and purer than, any of the products on the market that are sold for from $2 to $10 a pound. The only thing you will lack is the mental uplift produced by reading the infeasible claim published by the complexion clay exploiters."

ORPHEUM SIGNS UP TWO PICTURE STARS

Los Angeles, Nov. 12.—The first of the contracted picture stars of the famous Vineyard-Lasky agency upon between Jess L. Lasky and Marcus Heiman of the Orpheum, for Orpheum vaudeville, will be Ernest Torrence and Jacqueline Lorain. Torrence opens at the local Orpheum, San Francisco, as a single turn with a pianist.

Negotiations are on for Walter Hays for the Orpheum.

Weighed in Silver

Captain John Hull made the first pine tree shillings. To him was handed all the old silver in the colony. Battered silver cans and tankards, broken spoons, silver sword hilts, and odd silver buttons were melted and coined into shining shillings, sixpences, and threepences. Each bore the date 1652 on one side and a pine tree on the other.

Captain Hull waxed wealthy, for he had made a shrewd bargain with the colonists. One shilling out of every twenty was his title for being coin-master.

His daughter Betsy was a buxom damsel, rosy of cheek and plump of figure. When Samuel Sewell came courting her, he was so much in love that he never thought to ask for a dowry.

So when the marriage ceremony was over Captain Hull's servants appeared lugging a large pair of scales. Daughter Betsy was placed on one side and bright silver shillings poured on the other side until her weight was balanced in silver. This was her dowry.

The bride of today appreciates table silver as part of her dowry or among her wedding gifts. One piece or a whole chest brings pleasure for all time. You will find a very complete display of table silver on our second floor.

LAST TRIBUTES ARE PAID TO HERO DILBOY

George Dilboy

Washington, Nov. 12.—Foreign ministers, cabinet officers, army commanders of high rank, representatives from New England and members of Congress stood uncovered in the Arlington National Cemetery today while the remains of George Dilboy, a Greek private who died gloriously for his adopted country, were lowered in to his last resting place.

Among those at the graveside were Costas Dilboy, brother of the dead hero, and ten members of the George Dilboy post of Veterans of Foreign Wars, of Somerville, where Private Dilboy lived at the time of his enlistment.

They arrived today on the Federal Express from Boston to attend the ceremony, at the invitation of the War Department also the George Dilboy post, American Legion, New York city.

Miss Mabel Boardman, president of the National Red Cross, was a prominent figure at the grave. Senator David I. Walsh pronounced the eulogy, following a religious service by priests of the Washington Greek Orthodox Church. The ritual for the Veterans of Foreign Wars was read by Major-General Stephen and other national officers of the order. Services were held in the Mount Vernon M. E. Church. Following this service there was a funeral procession from the church, up Pennsylvania avenue to Washington Circle.

FOIL MAIL THIEF IN LEAP TO ESCAPE FROM BIG LINER

New York, Nov. 12.—A man hunt aboard the steamship Manchuria ended today when Albert Rosenberg, who escaped from a cable cell four days ago and secreted himself "down below," appeared on deck and attempted to dive over the side as the vessel stood at the pier.

Rosenberg was being returned to the United States to face a Federal charge of tampering with registered United States mail, while master-arms on the Minnehaha.

He was taken to jail.

BURGLARS LOOT HOME OF RICH SALEM MAN

Burglars entered the home of Lewis P. Allen, Salem manufacturer, at Lynnfield, during the night and stole from the room in which Mr. Allen slept two valuable diamond rings and about $20 in money.

Mr. Allen has offered a reward of $100 for the apprehension of the thieves and recovery of the loot.

He discovered the burglary when he awakened this morning. He was alone in his home and had been ill for a few days.

Two weeks ago burglars entered the home of his daughter, Mrs. Lowell Poole, 105 yards distant, and stole a large quantity of silver, cut glass and other valuables.

Clarkesburg, W. Va., Nov. 12.—When pretty Luella Mae Hedge, a bride of five months, refused to tell how she came to have a package of cigarettes in her pocketbook and laughed teasingly, her husband, Okey Hedge, shot her dead in their home in Clarkesburg.

Hedge then tried to end his own life, but only succeeded in inflicting a slight wound in his head.

"I shot her because I loved her and because she was teasing me continually and driving me frantic with her reference to flirtations with other men," Hedge said in his cell.

The DUO-ART PIANO

THE Duo-Art brings its wealth of music for those who demand the greatest compositions played by the finest pianists—

It is the Reproducing Piano Supreme

ARTISTS who know the Duo-Art record for it exclusively, and heartily endorse its reproduction as representing their playing at its very best.

From the first note sounded to the finale, the entire performance will be the actual playing of some notable pianist.

Neither the mechanism of the instrument nor the perforated music-roll will add or detract in any slightest detail. As the artist played, so one hears.

The world's greatest pianists are recording Duo-Art Music-Rolls. Hundreds upon hundreds of their concert numbers and own favorite selections have been and are being thus played into these rolls for permanent preservation. That which has been heretofore elusive and wholly transitory is being immortalized.

Purchasing a Duo-Art Reproducing Piano and its music-rolls, one acquires absolute command of the genius and all but the presence of the masters of the piano.

In one's own home and at one's will, Ignace Jan Paderewski, Josef Hofmann, Harold Bauer, Ossip Gabrilowitch, Rudolph Ganz, Guiomar Novaes, Ignaz Friedman, Percy Grainger and scores of others will step to the pianoforte and play — will actually equal their best performances upon the concert stage.

THERESA DUGGAN
In her "confession" to the State she told of her part and those of the other defendants played in the alleged blackmailing of wealthy men caught in a compromising position with her.

WILLIAM J. CORCORAN
Former district attorney of Middlesex County, whose prominence makes him the central figure of the trial. He has been named as a principal in the Duggan and Curtis "shakedown" thus far in the trial.

MICHAEL J. LYONS
Lyons, according to the testimony, played the role of detective when James L. Donovan and C. E. Curtis were caught in rooma with Mrs. Theresa Duggan, the chief lure of the alleged blackmail ring.

J. WARREN KANE
This associate of the members of the alleged ring rented an apartment in Cambridge, according to testimony, in which Lyons and Bearse are alleged to have trapped Max Korn with Mrs. Duggan and Mrs. Reese.

THEODORE BEARSE
Bearse also played the role of fake detective when the ring staged its raids on apartments into which wealthy men had been decoyed by the women lures, the prosecution charges.

FRANCIS DUGGAN
Divorced husband of Mrs. Theresa Duggan. According to Mrs. Duggan's "confession," he played the part of the injured spouse whose silence could be bought only by payment of a large sum of money.

HARRY E. LEVENSON
The State contends that this lawyer was the stage manager of fake raids for blackmail purposes and thus far in the trial the testimony has been brought out by the State with that end in view.

BLACKMAIL RETRIAL IS EXPECTED

definite answer as to when the trial would proceed, with a new judge or a new trial ordered, but a second delay seemed.

Judge Elias Bishop was assigned to find a way out of the legal tangle. He sent a court officer to confer with Judge Quinn's physician.

Difficultly was found in locating the doctor. Whereupon Judge Bishop declared court adjourned until later today. Then a decision, he said, would be forthcoming.

There has been discussion that another judge might be assigned to take up the case and proceed with it from the point where it was interrupted on the seventeenth day by the accident in Judge Quinn. It is not a likely outcome.

The matter of a new trial has raised the question of playing the defendants in double jeopardy. There is, however, a ruling by the full bench of the Supreme Court of Massachusetts which appears to cover the situation. It is in effect that defendants in a trial which is interrupted under circumstances of the nature which has caused the present situation may again be placed on trial on the same charges.

AT DRAMATIC MOMENT.
The trial was halted at one of its most dramatic periods.

Attorney Charles H. Innes, counsel for the Copley Square Hotel, was to have been called to tell about an interview which he had with Ernest B. Spracklin, manager of the hotel, in 1922.

Prosecutor Arthur D. Hill suspended direct examination of Spracklin in order to introduce lines. Attorney Joseph P. Walsh, counsel for William J. Donovan, at first opposed this plan but later consented to it.

Spracklin had admitted under direct examination that Attorney Innes had informed him he had been to the district attorney's office and had been told by a representative of the Commonwealth that information was sought involving the C. E. Curtis episode at the Copley Square Hotel on July 10, 1923.

Spracklin testified that Innes had told him he had come to him in search of information about the matter and that he had been informed by the district attorney's office that Spracklin, Levenson, Mrs. Duggan and Peggy Purdy were there on the occasion when Curtis was "shaken down" in the hotel.

Spracklin testified that he retorted that if the persons mentioned had been at the hotel, then Corcoran must have been Spracklin then denied in his testimony that Corcoran was at the Curtis suite on the night in question.

Copy Square Hotel on July 10, 1923.

Church to Honor Carmelite Nun

The Second Triduum of the archdiocese of Boston in honor of the young Carmelite nun, Blessed Teresa, known throughout the world as "The Little Flower," will be held during this week in St. Peter and Paul's Church, South Boston. A new shrine has been arranged in the church for "The Little Flower" by the pastor, Rev. J. A. O'Rourke. A beautiful new statue, the work of De Paris, rests on the new shrine within the sanctuary. The Triduum opens next Wednesday night with the blessing of the new statue. There will be prayers, a sermon and benediction. Similar services will be held Thursday and Friday evenings.

They Say: "What Pretty Teeth"

They say it of millions nowadays

Men, women and children show glistening teeth in every circle now. And those prettier teeth have brought them new attractions.

Many say, "What pretty teeth" and wish they could obtain them. The method used is at everybody's call. Careful people of some 50 nations are using it today. A test will be sent for the asking.

Those dingy film-coats

You feel on your teeth a viscous film. Much of it clings and stays, despite the old-way brushing. Soon it becomes discolored more or less, then it forms dingy coats. That is why teeth lose luster.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

These film-coats troubles became alarming in extent, so dental science sought for ways to fight them.

Two effective ways were found. One, disintegrates the film at all stages of formation, the other removes it without harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved these methods by many careful tests.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film-removing which contains hard grit.

See and feel it act

The results of Pepsodent are quickly seen and felt. They will amaze and delight you. In a few days you will realize that all your family should turn to this new method.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.

Watch these changes which occur, and you will never go back. Cut out the coupon so you won't forget.

POLITICAL DESTINY OF COOLIDGE IS HANGING IN BALANCE

FACES HIS GREAT CRISIS IN NEXT 6 MONTHS

Will President Coolidge make the political grade? What will he do when confronted with certain issues now coming into the fore?

John T. Lambert, Washington correspondent of Cosmopolitan News Service, who, as a newspaper man, has known President Coolidge since the latter was a member of the Massachusetts Legislature, begins in the Boston American the first of a series of articles on "What Will Calvin Coolidge Do?"

By JOHN T. LAMBERT

Copyright, 1923, by Cosmopolitan News Service

Washington, Nov. 12.—In the next six months President Calvin Coolidge will become the most interesting success or failure in all the world.

Never in the history of the country has any man taken up the burden of a great office amid such spectacular political conditions. He has no time to work out his own destiny. No man ever before has been called to the Presidency amid such a strange confluence of favorable and adverse situations.

Whether he can make the grade or whether he will fail, or finally settle back into obscurity depends upon his own efforts. No President ever went into the White House with so many important friends, watching him throughout the country, and so few personal friends near him to give him counsel, advice, and if need be, consolation.

CAN SPEAK OUT.

Mr. Coolidge starts out with the valuable reputation of having character. He is known to be a plain man, content to take the oath of the most powerful office in the world by the rays of an antique kerosene lamp in his father's humble home in the Vermont mountains. He is known to be a cautious man, of the type who looks before he leaps. The world knows him to be taciturn.

Newspapermen groan because he is silent. But citizens know that he can speak out on occasion. There is no right to strike against the public welfare anytime, anywhere, anywhere.

He is all that and more. Friends can illustrate his simple tastes with hundreds of stories. For example, on the President's first fall down the Potomac in the Presidential yacht Mayflower, the men brought for his approval a glass bottle of "Chateau Brand" champagne and other high sounding descriptions.

VALET IS NECESSARY.

"It won't do," he said laconically. "We will have breakfast, with much room and baked potatoes." That we will know what we are eating and enjoy it.

He regards his valet as a general nuisance, chasing him about at the head of a column of tailors' with outstretched arms holding tape and cuts of cloth. On a certain morning when he had at last found a suit of his own selection, he remarked to the valet, "I don't like it." The valet hastened to agree that it was a splendid fit and a fine weave of cloth. "I got that one from my Northampton tailor," said the President grimly.

Any doubts of the President's plain notions can be removed by John, his valet. John tore the knee out of his trousers and, being at that age in life when proper dress means much to a young man, took up the matter of a new suit contently with his father.

GIVES HIM HIS SITS.

"Dad" led John up to his spacious wardrobe and after some searching, picked out a blue serge suit of his own. "Try it on," said the father. John did. "Fits you well," said his father, nothing more. The President who thus was not too proud to bring up his son like the boys of less favored fathers also requested the newspapers to leave them free at Mercersburg Academy to pursue their education with no more

PANTALONE MERCURIO

Pantalone Mercurio picked the wine business on the eve of prohibition and lost a fortune. In thirty-two years he had worked up from a shoeshine boy to own a bank and had a million dollars in view.

He was one of the most powerful figures in North End's "Little Italy." Today he faces a debt of $100,000—money his friends had in his bank when business ruin swept it along up to the top of his misfortune.

"But for once," smiled Mercurio, "I am picking right."

He is wearing a pick in a shovel gang. Back where he started long ago.

The Boston American found him leaving for work. He was chipper and cheery, pick on his shoulder and a smile on his face. It was 3:30 a. m. and cold. The reporter chatted with him as he attempted to talk.

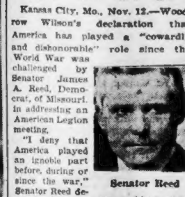

"Like it?" smiled Mercurio. "Sure I feel fine. Kind of different getting out of bed at 4:30 and hustling for tea or grain when I used to step out at 9 and find my own automobile waiting. But, wait—the old, wait—the old, it's all right."

He came to this country penniless. His first job was with a shoeshine. He got into the wine game and made money—lots of money. He started a bank, then a wine company. His plant occupied an entire North End block. Prohibition wiped out everything.

"That's all come back," said Mr. Mercurio, "and if I don't, what if I? We are happy. I am so proud of Pantalone as ever I was when he wore a cul-de-sac to the bank."

And that's that.

Senator Reed

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 12.—Woodrow Wilson's declaration that America has played a "cowardly and dishonorable" role since the World War was challenged by Senator James A. Reed, Democrat of Missouri, in an address before the American Legion meeting.

"I deny that America played an ignominious part before, during or since the war," Senator Reed declared. "I assert the noblest page of history ever written is the story of America's part before, during and since the war."

Sensor Reed said he objected to calling England, Belgium and Italy "our allies," as the former President referred to them in his radio address. "They are not our allies," Senator Reed declared. "Every State paper refers to them not as allies, but as associates."

"We stood by while our associates wrote the terms of surrender," he continued. "They took everything. We did not want and we did not get a thing out of it. We got not an inch of land."

"Great Britain took territory greater than the eagles of Rome ever floated over and we did not take an acre, Italy took, France took, Belgium took. Everybody grabbed something except the United States."

"Europe does not get our viewpoint. England has been stealing ever since the first Hohenzollern was born. France had a dream of imperialism and world domination. Almost every nation in Europe has been grabbing islands."

France Resents Wilson's 'Waste Paper' Remarks

Paris, Nov. 12.—President Wilson's address, broadcast Saturday night, created a disagreeable impression here. This feeling was not confined to official quarters. Mr. Wilson's reference to France as making "waste paper" of the Treaty of Versailles was particularly resented, because it was stated, only thing he had offered France, in exchange for the measure of security he refused to give her, was afterwards treated as "a scrap of paper."

The semi-official Temps, in an editorial headed "Short Memories," said: "If any one should avoid such quarrels it is Woodrow Wilson."

"Mr. Wilson came to Europe apparently forgetting he represented constitutional government and needed to consult the Senate."

"Even his own Secretary of State did not know Mr. Wilson's thoughts."

"Prices realized on Swift & Company sale of excess beef in Boston for week ending Saturday, November 10, on shipments sold, ranged from 1.05 cents to 1.15 cents per pound and averaged 1.05 cents per pound.—APR."

YALE STUDENTS' GRAPE JUICE IN DEAN'S QUIZ

New Haven, Nov. 12.—A number of Yale students were summoned before the dean of the academic department and questioned as to the presence in their rooms of fermented grape juice, said to have been purchased without the "kick," which was injected by the recipients by the addition of yeast.

Some time ago an agent of a grape juice company took orders on the campus for the juice, which was delivered after so long a time that many thought his visit was a hoax.

With the grape juice, according to the students, came directions for adding the yeast. Many followed the directions and found that the recipe worked all right. It is stated, according to one of the students, the dean's office in some manner obtained a list of students to whom the grape juice was shipped. Those involved received an invitation to visit the dean and in addition to other questions, were asked as to how the juice was given to them. No further action has yet been taken by the university authorities.

Dean Frederick S. Jones said the matter would come up today before the faculty and student committees on rules. About thirty students are involved.

GOPS FOILED BY ROBBER 'QUEEN'

Florence Bennett, "Queen of Shoplifters," outwitted Police Sergeant McDonald and Special Officers O'Neil and Dineen today.

Florence Bennett

The officers were accosting the South End for a man suspected of being one of the robbers who held up Justice Abner B. Wood at his home in the South End. When recently arrested by them, Florence Bennett, a woman who gave her name as John Kelly, Florence gave the name Mary Kelly. They were arrested on a statutory charge.

500,000 Words Are Spoken at Trial of Corcoran

A full-length novel has 100,000 words. At the blackball trial up to the moment it was halted Friday more than 500,000 words had been spoken and recorded. More than five "best sellers" the trial was in progress a trifling more than that, seventeen court days. A court day averages less than five hours. Time consumed, therefore, was thirty-five hours, or 2,100 minutes.

Simple arithmetic will show you that an average of twenty-four words a minute has been spoken during the famous hearing.

Charge. John defaulted today and Florence slipped into an early session of court. She was fined $10, paid it and disappeared.

The arresting officers went to the court, intending to have Florence held for reasons best known to themselves. Now they are looking for her again.

5000 KILLED BY 'BOOZE' IN U. S. THIS YEAR

Washington, Nov. 12 (U.S.N.S.)—Approximately 5,000 deaths from bad liquor have been reported in the United States this year.

Treasury enforcement experts make this estimate today, and expressed the fear that another 1,000 or more fatalities might occur before the holidays are over.

This estimate takes into account deaths reported by hospitals and other sources as having been due to "heart disease," which actually were attributed to drinking liquor containing different kinds of poison.

Madam! We offer you a NEW DRINK!

TETLEY'S

Makes good TEA a certainty

YOU will be surprised when we tell you this new drink is tea. "Why, I have been drinking tea for years," you say.

Let's see if you have. Look at the recipe for making tea given below. Is that the way you make it? If it is, you know the real flavor of tea—if not, you never have tasted tea.

Tea made the right way is the world's most delightful drink—without exception. You will prefer it over any other drink—nothing else will so comfort and refresh you.

Make a pot of tea from this recipe. The first cup will prove that we have truly introduced you to a new drink.

Let Tetley Help

All tea is not alike. Crops from many different gardens must be blended to produce the tea you buy. Your enjoyment of tea depends upon what brand you buy—upon the packer's ability to secure the finest crops, upon the skill and accuracy with which these tea are blended. Because Tetley's ability to do these things unequalled, Tetley's Orange Pekoe Tea is the choice of discriminating tea drinkers the world over.

The right way to make tea. Boil one quart of water. Put one teaspoon of tea in a pot for each cup of tea.

Steep freshly boiled, bubbling water on the tea leaves.

Keep for five or six minutes. Always serve with milk or cream. One pound of Tetley's Tea makes 500 cups.

BOSTON AMERICAN OPENS CHRISTMAS BASKET FUND CAMPAIGN

THOUSANDS TO GET DINNERS

Project Endorsed and Aided by National and State Dignitaries

The Helping Hand Christmas Basket Fund of the Boston American, which provides food for needy families in their homes at Christmas, was opened today for the tenth season. The Boston American again heads the list of contributors with a gift of $1,000. This newspaper earnestly hopes that its readers will respond quickly and generously to the appeal for assistance.

The need for aid is as great this year as at any time since the Fund was started. In our midst there are hundreds of unemployed men and women whose families are barely existing on account of the inability of the breadwinners to obtain work. Thousands of persons who have never known want are impoverished now. Many are at the verge of despair and will experience the most unhappy Christmas of their lives this season, unless some organization such as the Boston American Basket Fund lifts the burden.

MANY IN NEED.
As many of these unfortunate are too proud to ask for aid, their Christmas dinners will be meager, cheerless affairs, if assistance is not extended.

Through the medium of the American's Fund $7,000 need persons were fed in their homes last Christmas. A total of 25,000 pounds of food was distributed to approximately 25,000 families. We hope to do better this year.

All expenses of this great undertaking are borne by the Boston American. Not even a postage stamp is purchased from the contributions sent in. If a reader of the Boston American sends in $1 to the Fund, we will spend every penny of that amount for food and for nothing else.

Among the prominent persons who have endorsed the work of the American's Christmas Fund are Calvin Coolidge, President of the United States; Governor Chauncy H. Cox, Lieutenant-Governor Alvan T. Fuller; Mayor James M. Curley; Cardinal O'Connell, Rev. A. Z. Conrad, pastor of the Park Street Church; General Clarence R. Edwards, beloved leader of the famous 26th Division during the World War; and John Hays Hammond, the eminent engineer.

Among those who have made personal contributions are: Governor Peter D. O'Connell, Mayor Edward W. Quinn of Cambridge, former Mayor Andrew J. Peters and wife, Lieutenant-Governor Nor Fuller, John Hays Hammond, Attorney Sherman L. Whipple, Mrs. Augustus P. Loring, Helen L. Stone, Edwin A. Grosvenor and former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald.

HOW TO SEND MONEY.
In addition, contributions were received from many social and fraternal organizations, business concerns and labor unions. It is believed that most of these organizations will contribute again this year.

Make checks payable ONLY to Boston American Christmas Basket Fund, No. 80 Summer street, Boston (5), Mass.

West Deal, N. J.—Colonel George Harvey, former Ambassador to Great Britain, who returned last week, will eat his Thanksgiving dinner here, and not in Poughkeepsie, as he had previously expected.

Loosen Up That Cold With Musterole
Have Musterole handy when a cold starts. It has all the advantages of a mustard plaster without the blister. You just apply it with the fingers. First you feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then comes a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Musterole is made of pure oil of mustard and medicinal herbs. It is recommended by many nurses and doctors. It is safe for children, men, women, old and young. It relieves colds, croup, pneumonia, rheumatism, neuralgia, toothache, headache, congestion, pain and sores of the back or joints. It soothes sprains, bruises, chilblains, frostbite, and the chest. It may prevent pneumonia and "flu."

To Mothers: Musterole is now made in smaller form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole. 50c and 65c jars and tubes.

Tax Reductions as Recommended by Secretary Mellon

Secretary Mellon's tax revision proposals:
Reduction of 25 per cent. in tax rates on earned income.
Reduction of normal income tax rates from 4 to 3 and 2 per cent., respectively.
Reduce surtax rates by beginning application at $10,000 instead of $5,000 and scaling them upward to 25 per cent. at $100,000.
Limit deduction of capital losses to 15 per cent. of the loss.
Tax community property to the spouse having control of the income.
Repeal tax on telegrams, telephone messages, leased wires and advertisements, and possibly some of the so-called "luxury taxes."

The following table shows effect of proposed changes on the income of a salaried taxpayer, married and having two children:

MELLON URGES DRASTIC CUTS IN TAXES

Washington, Nov. 12. (Universal)—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon has recommended to Congress a sweeping program of tax reduction.

He revealed that during each of the fiscal years of 1922 and 1923 the Federal government collected $110,000,000 more than it expended, and he pointed out the means by which that vast sum may be returned to the people.

The recommendation, contained in a letter to Representative William P. Graves, of Iowa, stated for the chairmanship of the Ways and Means Committee, urges that the reductions become operative with the beginning of the tax or calendar year of 1924.

It provides for a cut in all taxes, but particularly in taxes on huge incomes, so that this source of revenue may be turned from tax-free securities into investments which will yield the government a larger income.

Secretary Mellon made it plain that the program would be impossible except for the budget system.

RUM SOLD NEAR FORT, WOMAN CHARGES

Boston is being sold in Hull near Fort Revere and local and Federal authorities have ignored complaints, according to Mrs. Gertrude Neal of No. 184 Spring street, that town.

Mrs. Neal declared to the Boston American today that liquor has been illicitly dispensed to soldiers in uniform in a house in her neighborhood for four years.

"I complained twice last winter to Chief of Police Frank Reynolds against this place near my home," said Mrs. Neal. "and no action has been taken."

"I saw four soldiers in uniform go into the place yesterday between 10 and 11 o'clock and one or two go in last evening."

"I know from observation and what the soldiers tell the children that they get liquor in that house."

"Rev. Mr. Coalter of the Methodist church complained to the head of the prohibition forces in Boston. He was told something would be done about conditions here, but nothing has been done."

"Soldiers from Fort Revere, just above here, come to that house and get liquor. The military authorities have been complained to, but they have told me the case is not in their jurisdiction. The soldiers visit the place mostly on the first of the month. They struggle in on other occasions."

"There are other places selling liquor in Hull, but this one near me is the worst."

Stray Bullet Kills Woman in Maine Hunting Mishap

Calden, Me., Nov. 12.—Mrs. Viola Hooper, housekeeper for Charles Sudday, a farmer at Robinson, was instantly killed there today by a stray bullet from a hunter's rifle.

Sudday, his four children and some farm hands, who had been at work in a turnip field, had returned to the house and were speaking about someone firing in the nearby woods, and the anxiety they had felt in the fields about the firing.

Mrs. Hooper stepped to the back door to look out and was struck in the head by a bullet.

County authorities are investigating the shooting, which, though believed to have been entirely accidental, is regarded as criminal carelessness.

HUSBAND SEEKS ELOPING BRIDE

Haverhill, Nov. 12.—Helen Mesogian, bride of two months, has eloped with a man named Peter, according to her husband, William Mesogian. The husband has asked police to find the couple.

Peter's last name is unknown. He sent letters to Helen from the vicinity of Bangor, Me. They were just signed "Peter." Mesogian and his wife came from Bangor just after their wedding.

The husband says he was down town Saturday when his wife left their home, No. 28 High street, and returned with a male companion. Mesogian is a Greek. His pretty wife is an American girl.

GIRL IS DYING; DOCTOR AND WIFE HELD

A mysterious telephone call received by Josephine, sister of Miss Agnes P. Walsh, twenty-three years old, of No. 286 Rindge avenue, Cambridge, who is dying at the City Hospital of the effects of illegal surgery, led to the arrest of Dr. Charles P. Woodworth, fifty-one years old, of No. 569 Dudley street, Roxbury, and his wife, Minnie D., fifty-eight years old.

The physician was arraigned before Judge Albert in Roxbury Court today on the charge of performing illegal surgery. His wife was arraigned on the charge of aiding in the operation. They pleaded not guilty and the case was continued to November 12.

After she received the mysterious telephone call telling her that her sister was being treated illegally in the office of Dr. Woodworth, Josephine Walsh hurried to the office of the physician only to find that she was too late.

The girl informed the police, and her sister was removed to the City Hospital, where her name was placed on the danger list. Inspector Hennessy of Police Headquarters interviewed the dying woman.

Cats and Catapults!

by the Veteran Motorist

THIS past summer I went down to the police games at Travers Island. I've always liked track and field sports, and especially do I like to see what fine athletes many of our policemen are.

But this particular day I was mostly interested in watching stalwart Matt McGrath throw the hammer in his old time form.

I watched him take his stance, carefully balance himself, shift his grip a bit, then round and round whirl the great hammer, until, with a mighty fling, it went catapulting over the field.

"Suffering cats!" someone cried. "Some throw!"

And ever since that day I have always associated upstanding Matt McGrath, and his mighty hammer, with cats and catapults!

We can't all be hammer-throwers, but we all can realize that Socony Gasoline for heavy-duty driving can make every day a record day in hauling. It has power—enormous reserves of power. It exemplifies a perfect co-ordination of start, speed and stamina. It is a wonderful gasoline.

MRS. PHILIP LYDIG

"WISH WERE A BUG!" SAID EX-RECTOR

Francis B. Boyer, former Boston rector, wood Lucille Macomber, little Nova Scotia girl, with poetry. She awaits trial on Wednesday charged with misconduct with the preacher.

He is hiding from police. The marriage is alleged to have been bigamous.

The Rev. Mr. Boyer was divorced by the niece of Mrs. Jack Gardner, society woman. But there is a legal question on the legality of the second marriage. Some of Mr. Boyer's poetry follows:

"Who was this biddy called Mrs. Stokes?"

That robbed John Baptist of his dome. The one that made me men leave home?—The Flapper. "With I were a bug, A little fat, cool bug, Blinking at the sun, I would be all day Upon a lily leaf."

"Well, here I am back again and I have had a wonderful swim and feel—well, just as though I wanted you here. In matter of fact, I believe I do, so come back as soon as you can."

"And when I tell you That I wish I were a bug A little fat cool bug on a lily leaf Blinking at the sun, I would be all day Upon a lily leaf."

And nuzzle something trite About the effect of the heat. "But dear, you are like the past times—except you are like the cool moist rocks with moss between you are like the shadows of thin green trees, across the moonlit stream, like rippling, twisting sprays of foam across the dark unfathomable sea—all these things you seem to me."

Mrs. Lydig To Testify For Mrs. Stokes

FIRST WIFE ALLEGES FORNERY

Aims to Substantiate Successor's Claims in Fight for Separation

New York, Nov. 12 (Universal).—When W. E. D. Stokes goes to court this week to fight his wife's suit for separation he will be confronted by two women instead of one.

Over the protest of counsel for Stokes, Supreme Court Justice Wavered today ordered an immediate trial of the separation suit. At the request of Mrs. Stokes' attorney, he ordered the suit put on the calendar in the regular order. Stokes' counsel had asked for a two weeks' adjournment.

Stokes will not only face the thirty-two specific charges of cruelty his wife will bring against him, but a sworn statement of indignity and torture that his first wife—the present Mrs. Philip Lydig—is alleged to have suffered at his hands.

WOMEN JOIN FORCES.
Whether out of sympathy for the present Mrs. Stokes or because of resentment for the man who was once her husband, Mrs. Lydig has voluntarily joined forces with her pretty little-haired successor.

On the evidence mainly of these two beautiful women, the courts of New York will be asked to grant Mrs. Stokes a separation, increased alimony and the permanent possession of her children.

Before marriage to Mrs. Stokes, Mrs. Lydig was Miss D'Arcy. According to her sworn statement, Mrs. Stokes subjected her to a beating that imperiled her life soon after her marriage to Mr. Stokes and the birth of their son, Weddie. This was in 1917.

WELTS RAISED ON BACK.
Mrs. Lydig charges that Stokes used in beating her a sport jacket with heavy metal buttons. This was applied to her tender back with all the strength that her six-foot, heavy set husband could muster, raised a series of heavy, raw welts and put her to bed for three weeks.

The same methods, it will be charged, were employed by Stokes in ruling his second wife. This kind of treatment, it is alleged, reached its climax when he caught the present Mrs. Stokes by the throat and held her until she agreed to sign away her rights of dower in Stokes' $100,000 holdings.

The separation action is linked with a petition for confirmation of Mrs. Stokes' dower right of $22,500—one-third of Stokes' $100,000 fortune—confirmation of the decree of Judge Ben B. Lindsey, of Denver, granting her custody of her two children, and an increase of her annual alimony from $15,000 to $25,000.

GALLAGHER AND SHEAN
OH, MR. GALLAGHER, OH, MR. GALLAGHER, I'VE COME TO O. O. YOUR NEW FACTORY!

OH, CERTAINLY, COME INSIDE, I ALWAYS TAKE GREAT PRIDE IN SHOWING VISITORS THE PLACE, YOU SEE!

OH, MR. SHEAN, OH, MR. SHEAN! OBSERVE THE SHOP-UP ORDERLY AND CLEAN! THE FLOOR IS SHINY AND THE LIGHTS ARE SHINING EVERYWHERE!

HOW MANY WORK HERE, MR. GALLAGHER?

—(Sing the words to the tune of Mr. Gallagher and Mr. Shean)

BANDITS HOLD UP 70; GET $5000 IN BOOTY

New York, Nov. 12.—Bandits in two raids today, one on a restaurant in the Bronx, the other in the chauffeurs' room of a Brooklyn garage, victimized seventy persons and escaped with money and jewels valued at $5,000.

Thirty-five men and women were in the restaurant when three men entered, lined them up against the wall, and took their money and jewelry.

BUYS TRUNK FILLED WITH MUD; FINDS IT HOLDS $1,806 GOLD
Omaha, Neb., Nov. 12.—A trunk full of black mud, purchased at a sale of unclaimed express packages where all roads are auctioned off unopened, when Hubbsford found the trunk he bought full of dirt he was generally laughed at. But finally he took a sample of his purchase to a chemist. The latter found traces of gold and the trip to the smelter followed.

Three hours later, a party of seven, led by a man with a livid scar across his face, held up thirty-five drivers in a taxicab garage in Brooklyn.

281 DEAD IN 1923 IS TOLL
OF NEW YORK JAY-WALKER
New York, Nov. 12.—The children of New York city are much more careful than the grownups in the matter of crossing streets. In 1923 it was clipped to 24.92.

In 1923 "jay-walking" was responsible for 281 fatal accidents, and 6,761 persons were injured in mishaps of that kind. It caused twice as many deaths as any other one thing.

The fact that only a small minority of pedestrians cross the street away from the proper crosswalk emphasizes the great danger of this habit.

KING TO QUIT GREECE UNTIL PEACE IS RESTORED

Athens, Nov. 12.—King George will comply with a request by the Military-Republican faction that he leave Greece for a brief period pending the clearing of the general situation. It is understood he will depart for two months and that he will likewise accept a request or ask the government to constitute a regency.

The request that the King abandon himself from Greece was transmitted to the monarch by Georges Roussos, former Greek Minister at Washington, who was deputed by the Military-Republican faction for that purpose.

King George replied that he would accept the suggestion.

COLLEGE'S 'DRUNKEN ORGIES' CONDEMNED BY CHURCH

Milwaukee, Nov. 12.—Protest against alleged drunkenness at the University of Wisconsin at Madison was taken by the men's forum of Kinsey Methodist Church here in resolutions calling for "severe action to curb students' drinking."

Editorials in the Daily Cardinal, the university newspaper, called attention to "drunken orgies" attending the annual homecoming football game were the direct cause of the situation. The resolution of protest will be forwarded to the president of the university and the board of regents.

SHAPELY LEGS DEFORMED BY "STEPPING ON THE GAS"

San Francisco, Nov. 12.—Driving car chassis and using the right foot to play tennis with the accelerator is rapidly making otherwise shapely young women with two malformations, according to Dr. Herbert B. Constant, executive director of Physical Education.

One of these is what physicians term bulging shin, which appears usually about halfway between the ankle and the knee, and the other is overdevelopment of the rounded muscles covering the shinbone.

The girls who drive "much longer and more unshapely than her left. Constant, executive director of Physical Education, said that in an automobile results in a right calf that is bunched and knotted, with an over-developed ankle.

DIES BEFORE GREETING NEW BABY

Only an old police reporter knew that Arthur Donovan, 68, died in City Hospital today in a coronary artery attack. He had been in the hospital since last week and was expected to live.

He had two children, a son and a daughter, both were girls. He wanted a boy, might have had one.

The story came last week and Arthur Donovan brought it to his wife. With palpitations he rushed back to duty—patrolman attached to the drug squad—and in his heart was the song of a boy.

It was a boy. He rushed back to duty—patrolman attached to the drug squad—and in his heart was the song of a boy.

Sunday his wife came home from the hospital, with her the new boy. Last midnight Arthur Donovan was speaking to his home at No. 1 Clinton street, Charlestown, to tell that little boy in his arms, to tell him how welcome he was to this humble little home.

At Broadway and K streets, South Boston, an automobile jammed into the street car Donovan was on. He was the only one injured. Today he died in City Hospital.

He never reached home to welcome the boy.

Do you wonder why a veteran police reporter choked, then cried, as he telephoned this news to his office today?

PRINCESS MAUD IS MARRIED TO LORD
London, Nov. 12.—Princess Maud, niece of King George, was married today to Lord George of the Wellington barracks at which the bridegroom is stationed as an officer of the King's Guard. Among the guests were the King, the Queen and other royal personages.

Lord Curzon ranks as a compeer. His title is one of courtesy, owing to the fact that he is the heir of the Earl of Southesk. He is thirty years old and his bride is of the same age. Her mother, the Princess Royal Louise, is sister of King George and the widow of the Duke of Fife.

100 STUDENTS SHAKEN UP IN R. R. CRASH
Buckhannon, W. Va., Nov. 12 (U.S.).—More than one hundred West Virginia students are shaken up but escaped serious injury when a B. & O. train was derailed near here early today. Many were thrown from their berths. The students were returning to school from a football game at Charleston.

Seeks His 'Ma' Amid Crowds

College Initiate Eats Ice Cream and Onions and Looks for "Ma" on Tremont St.

Jimmy Lyles' fraternity pin is going to mean a lot to him. Here's what the boy had to do to get it:

Dress in girl's clothing, even to the filmy underwear. Carry a lolly pop and a toy balloon.

Get a ride on a Cambridge street car. Eat ice cream smothered in onions in a crowded Cambridge restaurant. Make a speech from the top of the Central square subway station. Get his muddy blouse torn off by a crowd chasing him into the subway.

Stroll with the crowds on Tremont street, making everyone if they had seen his "mama."

SKIRT RIPPED OFF
Withstand the attack of a party of sailors on Boston Common, getting his skirt ripped off during the battle.

Get booked as a psychopathic patient and soon get released. Tell little Jimmy did it. He came through it all wearing his tortoise shell glasses.

Jimmy is now a full fledged member of the Esplanade or some other renamed Harvard or Tech fraternity. Jimmy Lyles' return to campus in the name of the "frat" or its college. Those initiating him likewise were sworn to secrecy.

"James Lyles, nineteen years old, student, Cambridge, Mass., writes on the blatter at Athens street police station, South Boston where Jimmy was a 'custody' before his release from the county of the police."

The first seen of Jimmy and his plumage was when he appeared on Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge. He headed a raid on a street car for the ride to Central square.

DELIVERS SERMON
In the square the fan began its earnest Jimmy got atop the concrete entrance to the subway. A great crowd collected. Jimmy delivered an address on the backsteps in the home due to drink. He was warmly applauded. Jimmy got his audience with a song. The song was interrupted by the appearance of a policeman. Jimmy dashed up Massachusetts avenue, and disappeared through the doors of a restaurant.

By the time Jimmy had finished with a crowd had gathered outside the restaurant. Jimmy tried to laugh as he joined the crowd, asking everybody he met if anyone had seen his "mama."

Jimmy crossed the ice of a party of soldiers on Boston Common. They surrounded him and before he could get away they had ripped off his shirt.

COOLIDGE CABLES GREETINGS TO KING
Washington, Nov. 12.—President Coolidge has sent this birthday message to King Victor Emmanuel of Italy:

"This auspicious occasion I am happy to extend to you my warmest wishes for the people of the United States and in my own name birthday congratulations and best wishes for your continued good health and prosperity."

SECTION III

ONE PELLETS IN BODY OF 'DRY' OFFICER

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 12.—Six persons, one a woman, were held with kill today in connection with the killing of George A. Stewart, Federal Enforcement agent, in a cabaret.

The police were looking for Salvatore Panavita, partner owner of the establishment, and his brother, Ralph, a waiter, alleged to have fired nine shots into Stewart's body at close range.

Stewart was believed to have been killed while collecting evidence against the cabaret owner. He was refused with bullets when he attempted to leave the place. Any one of the shots, medical authorities said, would have caused a fatal wound.

Stewart was believed to have been killed while collecting evidence against the cabaret owner. He was refused with bullets when he attempted to leave the place. Any one of the shots, medical authorities said, would have caused a fatal wound.

These killed were John T. Murphy, forty-eight, of Chicago Heights, and Mrs. Anne B. Erb, twenty-five. The couple, Mrs. Florence Kilian of Milwaukee, Mrs. Katherine Kennedy Youngblood, of St. Louis, Margaret Penzance, of Milwaukee, were in a car driven by Miss K. Murphy tried to open them, but their machine a gasoline blow, swerved over and crashed into a telephone pole.

From Park street he came up to the surface again and gave the crowd on Tremont street a merry laugh as he joined the crowd, asking everybody he met if anyone had seen his "mama."

Jimmy crossed the ice of a party of soldiers on Boston Common. They surrounded him and before he could get away they had ripped off his shirt.

PAT MCCARTHY RESUMES TRAINING
Pat McCarthy of Roxbury has resumed training. The Roxbury ring star is prepared to tackle Johnny Wilson or Harry Greb. He would draw a bulky horse if pitted against either of these men.

SPORTS AMERICAN

TED MOORE HAS BOXING CLASS
Ted Moore, British middleweight, who clashes with Tommy Loughran at the Faneuil A. C.'s show on Wednesday night, is a master boxer. This is true of most of the real British champions.

FOLEY AND WILLIAMS IN CLASH; MOORE BATTLES LOUGHRAN

WILSON AND REED IN TEST OF PUNCHING

There will be enough boxing this week to satisfy the cravings of the most exacting boxing fan. We think that even "One-Eyed" Connolly, the world's champion cage crusher, would be willing to admit that the little game was fairly acted if it were in Boston.

The Army will start festivities when it stages a tussle between Harry Foley of the North End and Eddie Williams of East Boston at the Grand Opera House tomorrow night.

The Faneuil A. C. will hold the stage on Wednesday evening with Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia and Ted Moore of England as the headliners in a show at Mechanics Building.

Just to that everybody would be happy, the St. Joseph's T. A. Society has a series of intercity tussles billed for the Boston Arena on Thursday evening.

Johnny Wilson, former world's middleweight champion and a 100 per cent improved fighter over the form he showed when he held the title, will parade into action with Pat Reed of Natick as an opponent at the Suffolk A. A.'s journey at the Boston Arena on Friday night.

FOLEY AND WILLIAMS BOTH FIT FOR TUSSE

Harry Foley, heavy hitting North End lightweight, and Eddie Williams of East Boston each report they are in the best possible condition for their ten-round battle, which will be staged by the Army A. A. at the Grand Opera House on tomorrow night.

It is known that a meeting of local lightweights has aroused as much interest as the Triple A clash. It reminds one of the day when Matt Baldwin, Eddie Murphy and Gilbert Gallant were battling for glory.

Dr. Finkelstein of the West End, for example, has asked the Army Club to reserve fifty choice seats for himself and party. Incidentally the doctor is a Foley roster.

From the North End comes word that a delegation of 500 fans will journey to the Grand Opera House. They, too, will be out there rooting for Foley.

East Boston, not to be outdone by the North End and West End, will turn out in force to give loyal support to Williams. They figure that this hefty bout will give them all opposition.

MARVO AND REED IN SCHEDULE

The semi-final of eight rounds, which will feature Jimmy Marvo and Jimmy Reed of Brockton should also be jammed with action. Marvo has been shown in main bouts in Canada, but accepted the Reed match so as to get better in.

There will also be two other fights. Won McManis of Dorchester will oppose George Allen of Malden while Lou Donovan of South Boston will clash with Young Reed of the North End.

TED MOORE EAGER TO GET BOIT WITH GREB

Johnny Mahoney and Joe McCarthy are speaking in glowing terms of the ability of Ted Moore, English middleweight, who clashes with Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia in the feature contest of ten rounds at the Faneuil Club's show at Mechanics Building on Wednesday night. It is said that Moore will make a favorable impression here much like Jimmy Mahoney and Joe McCarthy and Owen Moran who they were in their prime.

Moore weighs 155 to 158 pounds and so must be taken seriously as a middleweight contender. He has a leg amputated.

Moore will give away five or six pounds to Loughran, but he believes that despite this handicap he will win. Like other English boxers who have come to America, Moore is a fast, clever fighter and should make a hit with those fans who enjoy a scientific contest.

Loughran proved in his recent tussle with Harry Greb that he will be a winner.

Wolf Larson, the kava king, will try to continue on Viney Trail when he collides with Whitey Allen of Hyde Park in the semi-final of eight rounds.

REED WILL WIN FROM WILSON, SAY DULGER
Pat Reed, heavy hitting middleweight from Natick, will continue his winning drive by disposing of Johnny Wilson at the Suffolk A. A.'s show at the Boston Arena on Friday night, according to Dave Dulger, P. O. editor, who has been in the city for some time.

Pat Reed will say Johnny Wilson. The Natick fighter has been winning regularly of late. Pat McCarthy and Joe Kagan were defeated in Boston rings. I understand Wilson recently made a great show for against Robinson. He was looked out in his match with Greb.

"You must remember, however, that neither Greb nor Robinson was Boston's mercy in caring for animals has started the same interest in other sections of this country.—Mrs. Huntington Smith, Animal Rescue League.

'Jay Walkers' and Chauffeurs—Exterminators

Both Should Be Educated Out of Existence

Copyright, 1931, Star Co.

DON'T BLAME THE CHAUFFEUR IF ANYTHING HAPPENS TO THESE JAY WALKERS

Those that DRIVE and those that WALK need BOTH educated. There are wise, careful DRIVERS, there are careful WALKERS.

There are foolish drivers that ought to be in jail, there are foolish walkers that ought to be in a home for the insane.

The fact that all intelligent citizens is to impress upon children, from their earliest days, the fact that the streets are made for automobiles and the tracks are made for locomotives.

Those that use the streets should use them with as much care as they would use in crossing a railroad track.

Chauffeurs, needless to say, should drive with the greatest of care. But modern efficiency depends upon reasonable speed. And the dull indifference of the "jay walker" should not hamper the efficiency and value of that greatest of modern improvements, THE AUTOMOBILE, when it is properly driven.

Here we present for your observation a picture by the distinguished artist, T. E. Powers, who gives you a lifelike reproduction of a "jay-walking" couple that he saw crossing at the most crowded spot in New York city. He left out 90 per cent. of the automobiles in order to let you see the "jay walkers" more plainly.

With this picture we present to you a brief essay on jay walking.

By MR. FREDERICK LANDIS

Must educate pedestrians, as well as drivers, to stop the gasoline car from marching to the graveyard; we must dissolve the Ancient Order of "Jay Walkers" as well as the Chauffeurs' Exterminators, who drive through the streets mentally blindfolded.

Most of us learn to walk when we're a year old, but a lot of us never learn how to walk on the STREET.

It takes time to make a quarter and an accident to a pedestrian. If a man were to walk through a railroad yard, he would look all the time for the locomotive, yet the same man goes about the streets mentally blindfolded.

And the street is far more dangerous for the locomotive runs only on rails, while the auto runs everywhere.

Don't Be a "Jay Walker."

Letter Carriers' Pay

They Have Always Done More Than Their Duty and Their Request Deserves Recognition by the Government

We hope that the national government will recognize the justice of the letter carriers' request for an increase in wages. The letter carriers of the nation are a body of whom the American people may well be proud. Their service has always been excellent and they have always rendered more than 100 per cent. of service, if that is possible. They have always done a little more than has been asked of them. There is no corporation in the world which has obtained and retained the services of so fine a body of men for so small a cost.

The government of the United States and of the States and of the cities all ought to be model employers. They should always set an example to private industry in the conditions of employment which they grant. Their wages ought always to be a little better. The conditions of employment generally ought always to be a little better than those in private life.

And the employees themselves ought to be correspondingly a little better. They ought to make up in the quality of their service the extra cost of it to the public. In the case of the letter carriers, they have always done more than this. We have never had anything to apologize for in our civil service, and for the letter carriers least of all. May their shadows never grow less and may their economic conditions constantly improve.

What would be the average housewife if the letter carriers were of the same character as some of the outfits working for private corporations?

Regulation of Motor Trucks

We are still unable to see why the railroads are interested in the regulation of our motor trucks. It may be that our trucks need public regulation; but they do not need public regulation in order to make their competition with the railroads less keen, and that is obviously what the railroads are after.

If any regulation at all is proper, that regulation should be so far as possible, of such a character as to not impair the capacity of trucks to compete with our railroads.

For this reason we doubt seriously whether it is proper for the public authorities to hear the railroads on the question. They are not privy to any proper issue in the case.

CORN BELT WILL NEED HUSKERS

SNOUX CITY, Ia., Nov. 12.—An unusually heavy demand for cornhuskers throughout the corn belt will be felt late this month, according to J. W. Holmes, Federal employment agent here.

Cornhusking has been delayed by wet and unusually mild weather.

As a result the work is piling up and will cause a serious jam within the next few weeks. From four to five cents a bushel will be paid for huskers.

Give Details, Please
Editor Boston American:
Anna Pavlova, Russian dancer, tells our American girls, including those of the store and factory, they should own at least four pairs of shoes and should choose in hats and silk undergarments. I am in the factory class and make $15 a week. I haven't even any silk undergarments, to say nothing of the four pairs of shoes. I do wish she'd be good enough to inform us how we can make such purchases on $15 a week.

Hard to Make Ends Meet
Editor Helping Hand:
I am the mother of four children, three girls, five and four years, and a boy ten. I live in two furnished rooms and pay four dollars a week for them. My husband works nights for only sixteen dollars a week and I find it very hard to make ends meet now that I have to buy fuel. In four months more I expect to have a little stranger, and the future is very dark as far as clothes are concerned. I will be glad to come out and work a few hours each day for anyone who can't find work for the children. The small rent one and the boy need shoes very badly, and the others need dresses and underwear. My biggest worry also is school clothes. I would also appreciate a coat or sweater for my husband, who finds the mornings very cold. He wears size 35 or 40. I hope you can help us. I will wait patiently with a new hope.

Cares for Family of Nine
Editor Helping Hand:
I am a widow of thirty-seven and have a family of nine to look after. Three of the older children work, but they do not earn very much, particularly with the money they have to spend on many bodies to clothe. I wonder if there is anyone who can help a little in the way of a carpet or rug for the floor are bare. I am living in a cold place and my fourteen-month-old baby is on the floor most of the time. I would also appreciate old blankets or quilts for the children's beds. I have three boys, five, eight and nine. The baby is a girl, and the others are thirteen, fourteen, sixteen and seventeen.

WHEN MAILED FISTS REPLACED CLOCK HANDS

By Herbert Kaufman

IN 1914 a once prominent person, now living obscurely in Holland, polished his helmet spike, rattled his sabre and undertook to substitute mailed fists for clock-hands.

Adding machines have since worn their type flat calculating the cost of his adventure.

America is already twenty-six billions out of pocket, now including inestimable sums lost through the Great War's interference with progress, and the withdrawal of four million young men from productive tasks.

These expenditures, in more terms of dollars, are staggering, but the money value of stuff, energies, lives and talents that stoked the fires of victory does not indicate a tithe of the actual price paid to unwarious necessity.

Democracies at Bay Can't Quibble

Raw material reserves, that ordinarily would have lasted through an entire generation, were exhausted in a few voracious months.

Democracy, at bay, regardlessly seized nearest supplies, and satisfied munitions and commissary needs without quibbling at wages, contractors' profits or economic aftermaths. Walnut groves disappeared into gun stocks. White and yellow pine tracts became training camps, warehouses and temporary administration buildings. Greedy shipyards ate cak districts bare.

Over-pured in ceaseless streams from mine to blast furnace. Factories, pressed by national and allied orders, became Oliver Twist—feverishly added wings, machinery and housing accommodations for employees. Hopewell sprang up in the wilds and withered villages at deserted villages. A hundred similar communities, born of emergency, put labor on the auction block, bid for it with free housing or negligible rents, then closed down and left wrecking crews and salvage companies in possession.

The Rousing of Tares

Now, commerce is courping in its old channels; now, population is once more congested in its old stamping grounds: The law of supply and demand inflicts its broadcast penalties. Shortage pinches brogan and patent leather—penalizes dinner plate and cafe plate—reverses leases and rides the nation like an old man of the sea.

No sooner are salaries raised and price lists advanced than reality inflation and mounting overheads absorb the difference, leaving the consumer to scramble for crumbs of opportunity and inadequate shabby living there.

Food, fuel and habitation scarcity, conspiring with ever heavier distribution tolls, retard further growth of present industrial centres. Yet, still, ambition continues to lead and search for crumbs of opportunity and inadequate shabby living there.

"Wotcher Mean by Swimming Holes?"

Bees have more sense. When hives are filled and too many tongues are at the same flowers, they wing to fresh honey pastures and favorable hiving spots.

Parallel human problems, on the other side of the Mississippi, compel attention to untapped and scarcely touched possibilities toward Seattle and throughout the Northwest.

Far too many of us are sitting at one scant table, comparing mutual difficulties, provoking disappointment and extending the area of extravagance.

Too much mileage is being charged on grocery and furniture bills.

Young children are developing into anemic, stunted maturity—youngsters, ignorant of swimming holes, who never saw a smokeless sunset or beheld the miracle of Spring in a shadow.

Thousands of 'em have still to set eyes on a cow or sheep. Who'd ever think that we'd come to the pass of exhibiting domestic stock in zoological parks?

But the boys and girls, to whom sight of kine is a thrilling novelty, are compensatingly ingenious in information from which normally surrounded youth is precluded.

One million drug addicts, including hosts of public school pupils, testify a pernicious acquaintance with the Oriental poppy despite their ignorance of ropes swept with opium delirium. Apples at 98 Cents a Crate

There the machinist's lat is landing trout from the very stream that turns his father's lathe and cooks the family dinner.

Playgrounds range from ocean beaches to mountain valleys. A box of apples always in the cellar; salmon, wild game or fresh-picked berries in the larder; and a title deed to the property under every other roof.

Northwest citizens who don't produce their own butter and eggs buy certified milk from registered herds, and don't pop old-storage fowl in the stewpot or find wilted vegetables on market stalls.

Huge bunches of snowy celery for a nickel. Crates of select Jonathans for 98¢! Fresh-killed native beef and mutton minus long-hair taxes.

Opposite luxury waves saving books toward wheat fields, orchard uplands, chicken pens, truck gardens, ground floor changes in prosperous little villages beside transcontinental lines.

Get out of delicatessen and floor-walker attitudes of mind. Climb from the subway and board a train for the Pacific.

The Girl Who Sees and Hears With Her Fingers

Can You Explain the Mysterious "Sixth Sense" of Willetta Huggins, Who "Listens" to Music Without Hearing a Sound, and Recognizes Colors by Touch?

Passage from the Sextette as Played by Mrs. Ney and Transmitted by Telephone.

Mrs. Elly Ney, Famous Pianist, Playing a Few Bars from the "Lucia" Sextette, the Musical of Which is Printed Above.

Enjoying a Conversation with Governor John J. Blaine, of Wisconsin, Miss Huggins "Heard" Every Word the Governor Said by Holding a Fingertip Against the Side of His Head.

Miss Huggins "Seeing" What Color Miss Helen Keller's Gown Is, Simply Through an Acute Sense of Touch.

Better even than reading the story, though, was seeing Miss Keller herself. I think I liked her quicker than I have ever liked anyone else. She talked to Miss Keller by touching her hand. In the same way she conversed with Governor Blaine, of Wisconsin. But there are other means of communication for Willetta. Besides the "touch system," she uses the deaf and dumb language with one or two hands employed.

"I can use my hands to talk to Governor. Governor is my best girl friend at school. She's blind and deaf, too, but we have lots of fun together. We take long walks and talk—well, you know how much girls in their teens talk. We're just like other girls in that way. That is the way that Willetta puts it. There is nothing weird or startling

By DR. W. H. BALLOU.

SCIENTIFIC opinion recently received a shock that sent it reeling—a deaf and blind girl, it has been proved, can hear and see. Passing the most rigid tests with flying colors, seventeen-year-old Willetta Huggins first astonished officials of the Wisconsin School for the Blind, at Janesville, and then ran the gauntlet of sceptical outsiders, men of profound knowledge, who were cynical of her alleged faculties.

The "wonder girl" of Wisconsin is the first to have attracted world-wide attention by reason of her ability to "hear" and "see" through her fingertips; but it is now believed that there may be others like her, equally sensitized, and that these "miracle children" will eventually come to light. A veritable second human race of the "seeing blind" and the "hearing deaf" may finally be found upon the earth.

Extraordinary as the powers which Willetta Huggins possesses may seem, their explanation is simple. Or rather the simple fact from which they spring is overlaid with many subtle details. For while her optic nerve refuses to function in the ordinary way, she is able to receive and record impressions of a visual and auditory sort through her fingers. They are to her what the antennae are to the butterfly—infalible tests, which make mental photographs as surely and as swiftly as the action of a camera shutter.

She can hear, with keen delight, the music of a piano, a symphony orchestra or the human voice. She can, by touching the head of a friend or acquaintance, tell what they are saying to her. She can detect the difference of colors purely by touch. And this last-named process she quaintly calls "smelling colors."

Blue is her favorite, because she prefers its peculiar odor. "Green smells like glue," she says. "Their odors are the same, but my fingers tell me which is which. Blue smells like ink. Black's like a newspaper. White? There isn't any smell to white."

The "wonder-girl" literally sees with her fingers. By passing her hands over a newspaper headline, she can tell what it is all about. If it's a question of figures, she distinguishes one from another with the help of her attractive, impudent-looking nose. Each finger has a different amount of ink, so each conveys some delicate shade of difference to her olfactory nerve. This, in turn, transmits the intelligence to the brain centers.

Show her a newspaper engraving of four women in a group. If one of them has white hair and the others dark, almost instantly she will identify the white-haired one. "Talking" with people, especially if she knows them well, is even easier. For instance, there is Johnny. "Johnny," Willetta admits, "is my best friend. He's my portophone." (Portophone is her quaint term for a human combination of telephone, telegraph and eum.)

"He and I are together a lot. I guess you'd almost say he was my best bean, because I hold his hand and he whispers to me what the other people say. Johnny and I and Mr. and Mrs. Hooper—they're all over Chicago together." But Willetta will not think much of a big city. The silver wires of her senses were tangled; conflict of din disturbed and made her unhappy. "There were too many people," she added.

"There is too much work to do, and too much noise and dirt. I didn't have time to do anything else but go from one place to another. I don't like to travel. I like best to stay at home with the people I love and my own work to do."

But Willetta, in spite of her love of small towns and in spite of her terrible physical handicaps, is grossly normal in appearance and conduct. There is not the slightest suggestion of freakishness about her. Even her hair is bobbed, and she has the alertness and liveliness of the flapper. Attractive in appearance, her face has the glow of a thoroughly brisk and busy modern girl. In repose, this is quite true. But when she grows animated, it is additionally so.

Take her to a lecture at which she might be expected to show boredom and nervousness. Give her a sheet of paper when the speaker begins his remarks. She will hold the paper in the air, delicately poised like a leaf in a breeze. And as the speech proceeds, the vibrations of the paper will tell their own, accurate story to the little blind and deaf girl, sitting so rigidly "at attention."

Its melodious beauty was as keen as prelation as any other child with normal eyes and ears.

Willetta listens on a telephone con-

her. Nature, after taking away, has given to her—and others like her—plentifully to return.

Willetta's reactions to all these things are sharp, vivid and intensely personal, as she expresses them. She knows that there are others hampered just as she is. With them she has a wonderful sympathy, intuition and tact, plus admiration.

"When one of my teachers read me the story of Helen Keller," Willetta remarked, "I wondered if I couldn't learn to hear like her. I just loved that story of Helen Keller, and I have read it lots of times.

In all that she "hears" and "sees" But to the average child—or adult—Willetta's varied and colored life, full of incident and opinion and swift understanding, will seem a veritable page out of modern romance, a fairy tale of fact which would have terrified our primitive ancestors. Yet her case is perhaps not unique; it is merely a striking one, typical of the astonishing time in which we live, when deaf and blind, instead of being cruelly exposed on a mountain top, to die of cold and starvation, find that the whole world is their friend.

Medbury Says

By John P. Medbury

FRANCE has at last made a confident of America. She confided to us the other day that she'd never be able to pay the money she owes us.

SHE blames it on us. She says it's our fault for lending her so much.

POINCARÉ says he'll be more than glad to pay every cent he borrowed if some diplomat will tell him what to use for money.

THEY ought at least to send us the interest in French pastry.

BUT France's treasury is emptier than a bathtub in a plumber's window.

THEY came over and borrowed our money by airplane and it looks like they're going to send it back by snail.

WE still have the good will of France, but it's hard to pay the soldiers' bungs with it.

AFTER this, America should refuse to fight any more European wars on the installment plan.

THE next time the War Department goes to France, we'll send our doughboys over there C. O. D.

THE terms on our soldiers will be F. O. B. Hoboken.

EVERY one of the dollars we loaned them has our national bird printed on it, but the eagles can't fly home because Poincaré has clipped their wings.

IT'S too bad that instead of the eagle, we didn't adopt the snail. If we had, France could start to holler.

THERE'S an old saying that money talks, but there isn't a harsh word in one of the dollars that France borrowed from us.

HAVE THE TRAITS OF THE BIG MAN, NOT OF THE LITTLE ONE.

If your head is all swollen up over the job you hold, you are not going to be of much use in the job you are so puffed up about.

If a little bit of authority is direct others cause you to desire on all occasions to show the power you have, you are doomed for a fall.

It is only the man of small calibre who "puffs right up" when advancement or authority comes to him.

The really big man is the busy too much to think about himself.

The really big man does not scorn suggestions, but eagerly seeks advice.

The really big man uses his own judgment in sifting the chaff from the wheat, but he is glad to have something to sift besides his own ideas.

One afternoon while I was expecting my brother home, the doorbell rang and I went out as it always did when he arrived, and I rushed to the door and without looking put my arms around about the caller and began kissing him only to find that it was a strange man, who said, "Would you like to buy some brushes?"

Imagine my embarrassment.
